

1 Variable Selection

Let y be response variable and x be the covariates.

Classical variable selection methods rely on parametric family of models for the